

SQUALID CRACK HOUSE BUSTED — When Columbus police SWAT teams raided this crack house, at 688 Starr Ave., May 25, about 4 p.m., they found two teenagers and two adults inside the house. Also found were: 16 $50 rocks of Crack; a loaded revolver, a loaded automatic handgun, a 20-gauge sawed-off shotgun and $290 in cash. A man who identified himself as Thomas Curtis Kimbro, 30, was arrested and charged with aggravated trafficking. He was being held in the County jail Tuesday (May 31) on a $100,000 surety bond.

SECOND BUST YIELDS 151 ROCKS — The second raid May 25, about 6 p.m. at 1320 E. 28th Ave. yielded 151 rocks of Crack, worth about $7,550; a half-ounce of Cocaine valued at $1000; a .357 Magnum handgun, and $491 in cash, according to police. Arrested and charged with aggravated trafficking inside the house were, Devon Stevens and Glasford Terrellong.

Crack-cocaine haunting Black community; war waged against it

By ALBERT C. JONES
Call and Post Staff Writer

Crack has become a specter that haunts the Black community everywhere. Time Magazine did a nationwide portrayal of the problem as it affects teenagers. The characterization paints Black youth, for the most part, poor and caught up in the vicious cycle of the underclass. Crack is dangerous. Crack is a lure for big money. America, in its girth, has declared war on drugs. The strategy of "Zero Tolerance" is increasingly becoming a part of the daily vocabulary. The men and women who govern this nation have opened debate about the possibility of incorporating the army into a global war to combat drugs.

For its part, the Pentagon says the war on drugs will require $2 billion or U.S. military operations would have to be reduced elsewhere accordingly. So says a recent report in the New York Times.

With much anticipation that the Crack problem in Columbus was threatening a level of entrenchment, Mayor Dana G. Rinehart mobilized the Columbus Police Division for the city's war on crack. Capt. Frank Phillips, a 25-year veteran, was appointed in March to head the 15-member Crack Task Force.

"The chief (Dwight Joseph) was concerned about the influx of Crack," Phillips said. "He wanted to get control of the problem. In Columbus we feel that it (Crack) is bad given the complexion of the city — the make-up of the city. We feel that it is bad for Columbus, Ohio. Maybe in a city like New York or Detroit this would be nothing."

To go along with its Crack Task Force, police opened up 222-4850 as a Crack Hotline! Safety Director Alphonso Montgomery says in a six-week period 670 calls were made reporting suspected Crack houses.

The 15 member Crack Task Force has targeted an area that includes Parsons Avenue and a line south to Hosack, north to Hudson and east to James Road; the areas of Columbus which have historically contained the Black community. The Crack Task Force — as of the end of May — has packaged 130 names to be presented to the U.S. Attorney's office for indictment. All of the names being considered for indictment are Black.

Police have raided 67 Crack Houses. They suspect 210 others of fitting the profile of being Crack Houses. All of the raided houses and suspected houses are in the target area. Phillips and Lt. John Tilley offer the following profile of a Crack dealer in Columbus: mid-20s, to mid-30s, male, Black, with previous drug arrests, probably is affiliated with an older drug dealer. Echoing that the problem is indigenous of the Black community, police say there are no white-operated Crack houses in the city.

"We don't know of any yet," Tilley says. "We know that white people are using Crack, but we don't know where they are getting it from. We have not seen where any white people are dealing in Crack. We haven't seen any of that at all. We have no white-operated Crack Houses at this time."

With all of the focus on busting Crack houses, and the problem is indicative of the Black community, the question arises: Has the Columbus Police Division ever had a crime problem that exclusively dealt with a particular ethnic group?

"I don't know," says Montgomery. "I really can't speak to the history of that. I don't think it's exclusively a Black problem. When we talk about the location of Crack Houses, the preponderant number are in the Black community. The use and abuse of Crack-Cocaine is not limited to the Black community."

Police say that Columbus' supply of Crack is coming from Miami and Detroit, Cleveland and Toledo. There is no dealer network, police say, and there is an absence of crime families in the classic sense of Mafia or other gang involvement.

"No, No, they're not crime families," Tilley says. "What you have are your old-time drug dealers that have been in Columbus that were selling pills and Marijuana at one time and Cocaine and are now selling Crack. Then you have people coming in from Detroit setting up Crack Houses and selling Crack. But we're not like L.A. where the gangs are doing it. Where it's the Crips and the Bloods or whatever."

"We don't have any of that,"

Crack addiction is extension of lust for power, author reports

By ALBERT C. JONES
Call and Post Staff Writer

The dangerous attraction of Blacks to Crack-Cocaine may be an extension of an oppressed people seeking power and the habits of a society that is socialized to have addictive personalities, says Dr. Linda James-Meyers, a psychologist and associate professor of Black Studies at Ohio State University.

James-Meyers is the author of Understanding An Afrocentric World: Introduction to Optimal Psychology. The book, James-Meyers says, concerns itself with oppression and Blacks in society.

"My impression is that number one, we live in an addictive and oppressive society. This means we're socialized in a way to have addictive personalities," James-Meyers says. "Why Crack-Cocaine specifically? I guess you

CRIME SOLVERS

Police seek suspect in Mickey's market slaying

Tilley says. "It doesn't seem like a group comes in and says 'OK, we're going to pen ten houses.' We have none of that in Columbus. We know there are some people who are supplying four, six, maybe eight houses, but it's not an organized crime type effort in the true sense of organized crime. That's the way we want to keep it. Before it become entrenched where they start to divide up the city."

Police figure the average cost of an ounce of Cocaine is $1,500. The price of a pound of Cocaine is $24,000. So, how much crack is coming into Columbus?

"We don't know," Phillips says. "Put down lots. The problem is you only know what you catch. You only know what you interdict. You don't know how much is getting through, but you know it's a lot."

Gregory C. Lockhart is the assistant U.S. Attorney charged with prosecuting drug cases. "Crack is spawning violence," Lockhart says. "It's very addictive. It's so easily manufactured that it's a tremendously serious problem. We in the federal government want to prosecute possession with intent to distribute — the whole distribution network. To the extent that we can find and prosecute anyone in that network we're going to do it."

"This is extremely serious as far as we're concerned. Our attitude is zero tolerance," Lockhart says only about a third of the 121 names police have packaged will be indicted. Some won't be charged at all, Lockhart says. Others will be charged in state or county court.

Police are calling the current roundup of Crack dealers Phase I. Houses are busted at night. Dealers or buyers are not arrested. Rather, names and evidence are seized and confiscated at the scene. The strategy is to bring down multiple indictments so police won't be continually tied up in court. Lockhart refused to disclose when the indictments would be handed down.

"There are a whole lot of decisions to be made," Phillips says, "of how they want to present the cases to the grand jury and who their actual targets are. Now they'll take all that information in front of a grand jury and say 'We want to indict this man because he is the supplier. We want to bring in these two guys as witnesses who'll say how he supplied, and they'll indict him for 50 years.'"

"There will be five different charges for distributing, possession — whatever. Use of telephone — anything," Phillips says.

Police express that citizen cooperation has been phenomenal. "We've received more phone calls on the Hotline and the regular lines about Crack Houses and dope in general than on any other thing we've ever done," Phillips says. Montgomery says: "The greatest thing to come out of the whole effort is the willingness of citizens in cooperating in ridding the community of this problem. There's been such an outpour of support. You should see the number of letters I get reporting the number of Crack Houses in their neighborhood."

Columbus Police are still investigating last October's slaying of Timothy Lee Simpson. The homicide has been designated Crime of the Week in the Crime Solvers Anonymous Program.

Simpson, 27, was working in his family-owned business, Mickey's Market, at 1186 St. Clair Ave., at approximately 7:50 p.m. on Oct. 13, when two Black men described as in their thirties or forties entered and demanded money. One of the gunmen shot Simpson once in the abdomen, and both men fled in a light tan or cream-colored mid-sized automobile. Simpson died later in the evening at Saint Anthony Medical Center.

Crime Solvers Anonymous is offering a reward of up to $1000, with a deadline of June 16, for any information leading to the arrest and indictment in the slaying of Timothy Simpson. Information received after June 16, could qualify the caller for a lesser reward.

Crime Solvers Anonymous takes calls about any felony. Information leading to the arrest and indictment of a felony suspect could qualify the caller for a reward as determined by the Crime Solvers Anonymous Reward Committee.

A special coding system protects the identity of the caller. Reward funds come from private donations to Crime Solvers Anonymous, Inc., a nonprofit organization sponsored by the Columbus Division of Police and Fire, Columbus CALL AND POST, Columbus (Downtown) Kiwanis, 610 WTVN Radio, Columbus Messenger, Suburban News Publications, and WTTE Channel 28. Donations are tax deductible and can be sent to Crime Solvers Anonymous, P.O. Box 1225, Columbus, Ohio 43216.

NAACP REPORT

County sheriff shows exemplary leadership

By MELANIE MITCHELL
President, NAACP

When the current administration of the Columbus NAACP took office, there were serious problems within the Columbus Police Department. Columbus Police Officers were working in an environment that was very unhealthy for both the officer's and the community.

The officers had become divided by issues of race discrimination. Because of the broad community responsibility that the NAACP embraces, The Columbus Chapter was bound and determined that the NAACP was not going to let the same thing happen with the Franklin County Sheriff's Department. This community could not afford to have

The Franklin County Narcotics Task Force Issue presented the opportunity for both the Sheriff's Department and the NAACP to work together. Even though our respective concerns were different, it was quite clear to both organizations that the Task Force organizational structure was going to be a problem. The NAACP seized this opportunity to establish an ongoing working relationship with the Sheriff's Department.

Because there had been rumors of discrimination in the Sheriff's Department, the NAACP broke from its standard policy of waiting to receive a specific complaint before investigating. Sheriff Earl O. Smith immediately established an open door policy with the NAACP. The NAACP reviewed the Sheriff's Department personnel profile and promotional requirements. There was no evidence found indicating discrimination or discriminatory practices in the Sheriff's Department.

On Thursday, May 26, Melanie Mitchell, President of the Columbus NAACP proudly presented three awards to persons of the Franklin County Sheriff's Department. Certificates Of Merit were presented to Deputy Chief Jack Harris and Deputy Chief Al Clark for outstanding excellence and achievement in Law Enforcement and Community Service.

A Certificate Of Appreciation was presented to Sheriff Earl O. Smith for running the type of organization where dedicated officers such as Al Clark and Jack Harris can obtain historical positions as Franklin County Sheriff Department Deputy Chief's because they are qualified, and not because of the color of their skin.

The NAACP hopes that the community will join us in both congratulating these men for their personal achievement and continue supporting the Franklin County Sheriff's Department.

Earned leave sharing Bill proposed for state workers

If a bill proposed by State Rep. Otto Beatty, Jr. passes the Ohio House, state employees could donate earned and unused leave time to other state employees under certain conditions.

Beatty's proposed legislation would allow a state employee with accrued but unused, paid vacation leave, sick leave, or compensatory leave to donate all or part of such leave to another employee of the state who has no paid leave to his or her credit. Other conditions of such sharing relate to need. The receiving employee must need such donation because of his or her own illness or an illness or emergency in the immediate family.

"We're talking about unused leave time state employees have earned and want to donate to other employees with bona fide need. It could be the receiving employee's own sickness or the sickness of immediate family members," Beatty said.

According to Beatty, the leave donations would be "transfers on paper, under appropriate guidelines, approved by appropriate office, division, department or agency supervisors. The donating employee and the receiving employee would have to get approval from their respective supervisors in accordance with written guidelines."

"We're reviewing how this would be done so that the whole thing would operate with minimal paperwork, disruption, or supervisory time.

You know, we compete with private industry for good people. We have to do whatever is feasible and cost effective to attract and

3 MILLION RISK STARVATION

Red Cross launches campaign to raise $25,000 for drought-stricken Africa

Columbus City Councilman Ben Espy quoted American educator Horace Mann Wednesday, June 1 to begin the month-long effort to raise funds for drought-stricken areas of Africa, where starvation threatens the lives of three million people in northeastern Ethiopia alone.

"You should be ashamed to die until you achieve something for mankind," Espy quoted Mann, launching the Columbus Area Chapter of the American Red Cross' African famine relief campaign: "A New Appeal: Red Cross in Africa '88."

Espy said Columbus is a very caring city and asked famine relief fund raisers to work hard to heighten awareness of the problem and to double or triple the local goals. The Columbus chapter is attempting to raise $25,000 as part of a nationwide Red Cross effort to generate $3.5 million to assist drought victims and those who face starvation due to logistical problems of getting food into war zones. Espy is acting as honorary chairman for the campaign. Nana Watson Jones, a public relations representative for Columbia Gas, is chairing the Steering Committee.

"I think the community can participate in this fund-raising effort in a variety of ways," Jones said. "They can begin by volunteering to work on some of the committees. This is a time when this community can show their love for the "Motherland by giving. We would like for those in the community to give a commitment to double the $25,000."

Through its relief programs, the Red Cross is currently providing emergency distribution of food, medical aid and supplies necessary to maintain life in nine African countries, including the Sudan, Malawi, Mozambique, Burkina Faso, Ethiopia, Mauritania, Niger, Chad and Angola. Red Cross development assistance is underway in 16 African countries.

As part of the fund-raising effort, a pin in the shape of Africa with the Red Cross logo is being distributed. A minimum donation of $5 is being requested. Street Corner Collectors will seek donations on the major streets of downtown. Volunteers are needed to staff the Africa Desk in the Red Cross lobby.

The Red Cross will hold a Phone-A-Thon June 23, from 6:30 a.m. to midnight, on WVKO-AM-1580. A one-day phone number will be used during the Phone-A-Thon: 25-ALONE. For additional information on joining committees and make donations, call 253-7981.

AMOS H. LYNCH SR., Call and Post general manager and vice president of advertising, (right) recapped the history of City Council President Jerry Hammond at a salute held last Wednesday. When Lynch first met Hammond in the 1960s, he (Hammond) was a Black militant. Later, he worked for CMACAO, became former City Councilman Jim Roseboro's legislative assistant, and was appointed to council when Roseboro left office.

AKO KAMBON, Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce director of Community Development, (left) delivered a glowing tribute to his former boss, Jerry Hammond, during a salute to the City Council president.

FRIENDS TELL HAMMOND:

'We really love you, Jerry'

Amos H. Lynch Sr., general manager of the Columbus CALL & POST, first met Jerry Hammond when he was a young man meeting with the grayer heads of the Columbus community in order to address social and racial unrest during the turbulent 1960s.

When the established Black community leaders met in a room, shortly after the city's first civil rights disturbance, to attempt to figure out how they would address the legal problems of the young people who were rioting, Lynch recalled that "in a corner of the back of the room, (there) was a loudmouth turkey saying, 'what are these Uncle Toms talking about?'" That "loudmouth turkey" was Jerry Hammond.

Now, 20 years later, Lynch and more than 200 other leaders in the Black and white communities met May 18 at the Martin Luther King Center for the Performing and Cultural Arts to pay tribute to Hammond.

The tribute was created, according to mistress of ceremonies and Columbus city council member Cynthia Cecil-Lazarus, as a way to permit the community to show its support for Hammond during a period in which he was under attack. Hammond had been attacked by both the Columbus NAACP and the Columbus Dispatch for his role in support of a settlement on the annexation of "Wexley."

Hammond's friends recalled him as a loyal supporter, a brilliant person, a smart politician who could also put his foot in his mouth, and a committed leader.

"Sometimes, Jerry, you're a pain," Les Wright, longtime Hammond supporter and co-worker at Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, said of her friend.

Hammond was honored as a man who always retained a commitment to the neighborhoods, and the poor, and as a man who could be touched by the needs of his constituents.

Once, Herbert Holliman, a longtime community activist who was also a Hammond neighbor, wrote a letter to the Columbus Dispatch regarding Hammond's support for the development of an upscale restaurant at the old governor's mansion on E. Broad St. near Champion Ave., in an area close to both public housing projects and a senior citizens' home.

Holliman questioned how a city council member could possibly support a restaurant of that type, "where the meals started at $12 and went up to $25, in an area where the people living there couldn't afford to eat there?"

Later, Holliman recalled, Hammond's wife Gwen called Holliman, saying that Hammond had tears in his eyes reading that letter, and they later shared a tear together.

"I want people to know there is some consideration for others" with Hammond, Holliman said. "He had compassion for the people he had to serve."

To Hammond supporters, one of the living monuments of his activity in support of the Black community was the place in which the salute was held—the Martin Luther King Center.

The Center would not have been built "were it not for his personal commitment," Lynch said. Hammond had "sacrificed much of his personal self to make this building come about."

Longtime Hammond aide Ako Kambon called him a "trailblazer" in Columbus, and a person who "could make a difference" in the lives of thousands within the Columbus community.

A surprise speaker was his son,

Jerry, who said his father is "a great community leader, but for myself, he's a great father." But attorney and King Center board president Larry James summed up the sentiments of the evening when he said, "we love you, Jerry."

Hammond thanked Columbus for his success, saying that the city "has been extremely good to me. It's given me the opportunity to make some mistakes and grow. It's allowed me the opportunity to be somebody."

While the tone of the celebration was decidedly in the past tense, Hammond said he remains intent on staying in leadership. Despite his recent protestations of possibly leaving Columbus city council, Hammond, his spirits clearly cheered by the event, said, "I'm not going anywhere soon."

SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT APPLAUDED—The Columbus Chapter of the NAACP, presented certificates of merits to Deputy Chiefs Jack Harris and Al Clark, and Franklin County Sheriff Earl O. Smith in a brief ceremony, held Thursday, May 26. Presenting the awards, Melanie Mitchell, president of NAACP, said, "The NAACP hopes that the community will join us in both congratulating these men for their personal achievement and supporting the Franklin County Sheriff's Department for the outstanding job it is doing in serving the community." Sheriff Smith promotes two Franklin County Sheriff Earl O. Smith recently promoted two long-time officers to new chief deputy positions.

Jack Harris, who has been with the department for 22 years, was promoted to chief deputy for investigative services. Harris, 54, will be in charge of the detective bureau. Most recently, he served as a major in the detective bureau.

Also promoted was Larry Farley, 40, who has been with the department for 17 years. He was named chief deputy for internal affairs, community relations and training. He was a major in charge of internal affairs.

Harris and Farley will earn $20 an hour in their new jobs.

The department now has five chief deputies, the second-highest position behind Smith. Fred Miller, who served as head of the detective bureau, will now maintain command over the civil bureau, records and identification. Michael Creamer will be chief of the patrol bureau, while Al Clark will be in charge of corrections and jail administration.

Clark, who was promoted last month, became the highest-ranking Black in the history of the department. Harris is the second Black to be named a chief deputy.

"Sheriff Smith is doing all he can to move qualified officers up without regard to race, color and national origin. He is a fine administrator," one deputy said.

COABP elects officers

The Central Ohio Association of Black Psychologists has concluded a successful year and elected officers for its 1988-89 year. At the last chapter meeting in May, Dr. Willie Glover was elected president; Dr. Denise Hatter, vice president; Kevin Dixon of the Franklin County Mental Health Board, Secretary and Dr. Dennis Alexander, treasurer and president-elect.

COABP is a member of the National Association of Black Psychologists. Locally, they meet monthly to discuss problems, needs and issues of African Americans who use the mental health services and is a support for professionals and students in the field of psychology. Several of its members have been recognized nationally for their scholarly research in psychology and contributions made to the local community.

COABP also recognized Dr. Richard Kelsey for his retirement from the Ohio State University and honored him with a certificate and gift.

Action at Corrections

The recent firing of one guard and the disciplining of four others at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility, in the death of inmate John Ingram, indicates a new spirit at work in the Department of Rehabilitation and Corrections.

Ingram, according to the Scioto County Coroner, died of acute respiratory infection, and not of a beating he had received. A vigorous investigation at the facility, backstopped by credible inmate testimony, however, uncovered the attack on Ingram which was allegedly perpetrated by one of the correctional officers, Walter White.

The other four officers covered up the incident by originally refusing to testify.

The handling of this incident is in marked contrast to the department's inquiry into the death of Jimmy Lee Haynes in 1984, also at SOCF. Haynes was killed when a correctional officer restrained him by placing his foot on Haynes' neck. Despite this seemingly-blatant use of improper and excessive force, no one was disciplined in that case.

In this case, action was taken quickly; an aggressive investigation followed; and, for probably the first time, inmates were not only questioned, but believed when they spoke about what they said they saw. And, once a credible case was made, disciplinary action was both swift and sure.

We are disturbed to see that the union representing these workers is attempting to make public-relations points in their handling of the defense of these workers. The Ohio Civil Service Employees Association, Local 11 of AFSCME, has called these workers "scapegoats" for problems of staffing and training at the Lucasville facility.

That argument won't wash. It does not appear that White was some green rookie, but an experienced worker. In addition, the supervisor in charge at the time, Donald McQuithy, was both experienced and responsible for ensuring that proper procedures were carried out.

We recognize that it is the responsibility of the union to represent its members. But to publicly blast the administration with the inflammatory language it used is inappropriate, particularly in such a sensitive issue as the death of an inmate.

John Ingram was on death row for murder. He did not deserve to be abused however, in the manner he appeared to have been abused. The prisoners under the custody of the State of Ohio deserve, as human beings, appropriate and fair treatment until their sentences are completed or (in the case of Ingram) their sentences are carried out.

We are pleased to see that the Department of Rehabilitation and Corrections recognizes that central truth, and is willing to demonstrate by its actions that it will protect that fundamental right.

A good start on housing

The gateway to Columbus' near east side will be a 64-unit housing development called Gateway—the product of an innovative city program to spur the construction of new, market-rate housing in the Columbus inner city. We applaud the program.

Under the program, which is based on a similar model in New Brunswick, N.J., the city, in order to spur development, has committed over $3 million in bond money to construct 64 two and three-bedroom housing units in the area near the Martin Luther King Center for the Performing and Cultural Arts and between Long St. and Mt. Vernon Ave. These new houses will be priced from approximately $70,000-$80,000.

Some may question the high price of these houses, in comparison to the needs of many already living in that neighborhood. However, the city believes—and we agree—that strong neighborhoods are built on diversity, and it would be beneficial for everyone involved to see an influx of middle-income homeowners coming back to the near east side.

Indeed, the income minimum of $31,000 for a family would permit many moderate-income families to get their first opportunity at home ownership, through payment of a modest down payment ($1,000) and continuing to live in and make payments on the house. House payments are estimated to be between $650 and $750 per month.

There have been some complaints about the manner in which the housing developer, Newtowne Co., was chosen for this project, and there have been complaints about some features of their design plan, and the lack of community input. We believe these are serious concerns, and must be addressed seriously. A development project of this size and complexity needs strong and aggressive community support and salesmanship to be effective, and we would hope that the city's Department of Human Services, which is promoting this project, will consider the input of responsible community-based organizations.

However, despite the problems, we believe that this program offers a tremendous benefit to the near east side area, and the entire inner city of Columbus. We hope that the city will maintain its support for this program, and will expand it into other neighborhoods.

Myths and facts

We in the Black community know enough about our teen pregnancy problem to be very worried about it. But do we know enough of the facts to take effective action? How many of us are still hearing and repeating the following myths?

Myths: Black teens are responsible for most of the teen births in this nation.

Fact: White teens, who make up the vast majority of our teen population, are also responsible for most of the teen births. However, Black teenage women are more than twice as likely as their white peers to give birth. That is the real reason that the Black community is justly said to have an especially severe teen pregnancy problem.

Myths: The main reason that Black teens are more likely to have children than white teens is that they are more likely to be having sex.

Fact: There are many reasons that Black teens are more likely than white teens to have babies. The biggest one is that Black teens who are sexually active are more likely than white teens to get pregnant because they are less likely to start using contraception early or to do so regularly. The next most important reason is that pregnant

Black teens are less likely than pregnant white teens to have abortions. A third reason is that Black teens are somewhat more likely to be sexually active than white teens. But sexual activity rates are up among teens of all races.

Myth: There is nothing we can do to prevent teen pregnancy.

Fact: There is much we can all do to prevent teenage pregnancy. We can talk to our boys and girls about the consequences of premature and unprotected sexual activity, we can spend time with and pay attention to our children and help them build strong self-esteem, and we can, through offering them positive life options, provide hope that a positive future awaits them. The Black community is beginning to rally its resources to tackle this challenge in our churches, community groups, schools, and homes. You can and should join in. If you would like to know what a variety of organizations are doing, write Adolescent Pregnancy Child Watch, CDF, 122 C Street NW, Washington, DC 20001.

COMMENTARIES

The drop in Black directors

Five short years ago, in the newness of the Celeste administration, the Governor would stand up at various events and note his administration's commitment to affirmative action by the utilization of one critical statistic: The hiring of six Blacks to be in the cabinet—a record no Governor, in this state or any other, had matched.

There was William Sykes, heading the flagship agency the Department of Administrative Services; Joyce Chapple at the Department of Aging; Leonard Lancaster as chairman of the Industrial Commission; James Rogers at the Department of Youth Services; Dr. Minnie Fells Johnson at the Department of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities; and Warren Tyler as the director of the Department of Commerce.

In the five succeeding years, however, all of that original team is gone, each leaving for different reasons. Some, like Chapple and Sykes, left for better opportunities; Tyler returned to his position as a vice-president at a bank; after intense media attack during his tenure at another department, the Environmental Protection Agency; Dr. Johnson was forced out amid problems in her agency; Lancaster moved to the Utilities Commission of Ohio, where he resigned rather than being denied confirmation by the Senate; and Rogers was fired, and later convicted, of personal corruption.

Blacks on the cabinet. In the case of Carol Austin, however, she was

CAPITOL COMMENTS

By GILBERT PRICE

The hiring of Carol Austin, an associate professor of sociology at Ohio State University, to replace Chapple at Aging has completed the cycle. Now, none of the original six remains in state government.

State Rep. C.J. McLin of Dayton, who has been pushing for the hiring of Blacks to key positions in state government, has been disappointed with what he calls a "steady decline" in the number of Blacks in such positions.

"Usually, there has been no replacement (of Blacks with Blacks), not only on the cabinet but in subcabinet positions," McLin said recently.

McLin said he had expressed his concerns to the Governor, and the Governor reiterated his commitment to enduring the hiring of Blacks into key positions.

Governor's spokesperson Debbie Phillips said that Celeste has the "desire to promote and place selected, "because she was the best qualified," Phillips said. "She has unique qualifications in the field of elder care."

There has been great turnover among the Celeste administrators—Black and white alike. Of the 30 top cabinet-level administrators hired in 1983, 23 are no longer in government, and some positions have seen several changes. In that turnover, Blacks have been appointed to replace whites as directors in the departments of Health (Dr. Ronald Fletcher) and the Adjutant General (Col. Richard Alexander).

Despite these additions, the numbers keep dropping, and there are fewer opportunities to push the numbers up. Indeed, the only cabinet position now open is that of the administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, where McLin is pushing consideration of two Blacks among those as finalists.

AIDS and common sense

Common sense in some public policy debates is so rare that the person using it appears to be a genius. Dr. David Pence offers us some common sense in his pamphlet, "AIDS: A War We Can Win."

Dr. Pence lists some paradoxes of the AIDS debate: "[C]ommunities with the highest incidence of the disease that have been the most reluctant to apply stringent public health measures to prevent the transmission of the disease." No surprise, it's precisely those communities which have the strongest homosexual lobbies which are the most subject to political pressure.

Another paradox is the labeling of legitimate concerns of health care workers, parents, physicians and the public in general as AIDS hysteria. Therefore, individuals who might advocate traditional public health measures are silenced lest they be portrayed by the media as fascists, homophobes, or rightwingers.

Several years ago, nurses who treated AIDS patients only after donning gloves and masks were disciplined. The authorities told us AIDS could not be transmitted through casual contact and the nurses were contributing to AIDS hysteria.

Of course, after several nurses contracted AIDS, the authorities changed their tune advising health care practitioners to wear gloves.

Dr. Pence's final paradox is that, while the major beneficiaries of good public health policy are homosexuals, the homosexual lobby is most opposed to it.

Traditional public health policy has been virtually abandoned in the AIDS epidemic. In the cases of infectious diseases like syphilis, typhoid, and tuberculosis, the first component of public health strategy was built on identifying individuals who are infectious.

to appropriate millions of dollars for a cottage industry under the banner of AIDS education. Taxpayers' money is handed out to men who not only engage in the behavior which spreads the AIDS virus but who publicly and

MINORITY VIEWS

By WALTER E. WILLIAMS

In the case of AIDS the homosexual lobby insists on anonymous testing, wherein neither the public health officials, nor anyone else, is notified. It's simply left up to the AIDS carrier to decide whether he will inform his sex partners of his disease and take other measures to protect against its spread.

Dr. Pence says the second component of traditional public health policy is identifying other AIDS carriers through contact tracing. This practice has been abandoned in all but two states. The third component is shutting down places harboring activities which contribute to the spread of AIDS. Dr. Pence says Minnesota bath houses have posters advertising condom use, thus they are kept open and defended as places of AIDS education.

Adding to his irrationality, the homosexual lobby has gotten Congress and the state legislatures proudly proclaim their lifestyles as a virtue, and hold considerable contempt for those of us who practice "straight" sex.

Would anybody in their right mind ever contemplate soliciting cigarette smokers or executives of the tobacco industry to lead the educational effort against the hazards of smoking and lung cancer?

Dr. Pence concludes that public health policy should require that individuals testing positive for AIDS must forego all penetrating sexual activity and must disclose all sexual contacts to public health officials. Carriers who will not refrain from sex activities, or disclose sex partners, must be isolated or quarantined as recalcitrant carriers.

Who needs experts for AIDS public health policy. We just need officials with common sense—and the guts to use it.

IN YOUR OPINION

In the face of the enemy

ON THE STREET

I congratulate you on your editorial proclaiming "No Surrender On Drug War" (The Call and Post, Thursday, May 26, 1988), and sound rejection of the nonsense touted by the Mayors of Washington, D.C. and Baltimore, Maryland, that we should legalize the use of drugs like cocaine and heroin.

Proponents of legalization point predominantly to the necessity for taking the profit out of organized drug trafficking. They say, in their naivete, that legalization would accomplish this. While I don't believe it, the key point is that profit is not what the drug problem is about.

The drug problem is about the future of our country — the health and welfare of our nation and its people. In basic terms, as you pointed out in your editorial, the fight now is about the task of winning the hearts and minds of the next generation of Americans and to persuade them that the future of our country depends on their being drug-free.

Legalization is more than "surrendering" — it's outright cowardice in the face of the enemy. If we as a nation and a people want to turn our country over to the international and national narcos dealers, the murderers, thugs, muggers, rapists, and your run of the mill psychopaths, then we should legalize cocaine and crack, and heroin, and PCP, and LSD, and marijuana and all the illegal narcotic drugs.

Through legalization we can send the message to our children and grandchildren that we don't care about them, about us, or about our country. Legalization will tell them that it is okay to take this poison and to become addicted, to destroy their lives, to give birth to addicted infants, and even to die as a direct result of drug use.

Until we are willing to do this as a nation and as a people, we shouldn't consider even for a moment the legalization of this poison.

Had our forefathers throughout history exhibited this type of resolve in the face of adversity, the United States of America would not exist today!

Sincerely yours,
Patrick M. McLaughlin
Cleveland, OH.

(Editor's note: McLaughlin is United States Attorney, Northern District of Ohio, with the U.S. Department of Justice).

Exceeding goal

I would like to thank you personally for your help in reporting on the 1988 Operation Feed campaign. As you may know, Operation Feed far exceeded its 5.2 million goal, raising well over 6 million cans.

Fewer people will go hungry this year due to many volunteer hours and food contributions that made the campaign successful. Columbus is a community that cares, and that total of over 6 million food items is an outstanding achievement.

With your help, the needs of the hungry in Franklin County were brought to the attention of members in our community who otherwise might not have been informed — and because you helped thoroughly inform them, we were able to surpass our goal.

On behalf of the elderly, children and those who have ever used one of Franklin County's food lines or pantries, I thank you for your assistance.

Sincerely,
Frederick A. Deal
Campaign Chairman
Columbus, OH.

Healthy start

On behalf of the Northeast Ohio Chapter of the March of Dimes, we would like to thank all the walkers and volunteers who participated in WalkAmerica on Sunday, April 24, 1988. Over $157,600 was raised to help the March of Dimes prevent birth defects, the nation's number one child health problem.

Credit for the success of WalkAmerica belongs entirely to the people of Cuyahoga County. Individuals, businesses, clubs and schools all rallied together to improve the health of future generations. We are especially indebted to the more than 1,700 walkers who participated. Across Northeast Ohio, over $550,000 was raised through the efforts of 7,870 participants.

The money raised will go to support March of Dimes programs to prevent birth defects nationally and in Cuyahoga County. Local March of Dimes grant recipients include Dr. John Patrick O'Grady of C.W.R.U., who is studying ways of differentiating true from false labor, as well as Dr. John Moore of Cleveland Metropolitan General Hospital, who is developing a training program in newborn resuscitation for hospital medical teams.

Thank you, Cuyahoga County, for your commitment to giving every child a healthy start in life.

Sincerely,
Peter Rademacher
WalkAmerica Chairman
Cleveland, OH

True facts

We the family of Mr. Ralph Underwood would like to take this time to say thank you for your article in the May 19, 1988 issue.

As a reporter you obtained the true facts before writing your article instead of taking a fabricated or misleading account of the premeditated and malicious murder of a man who had nothing but respect for other's property.

Your question, "Is personal property worth killing someone over?" has and should be answered by our so-called judicial system. As it stands now, this man is free on bond, so my question is, "Is a man's life only worth $15,000."

We would like to see you continue to get the true facts and report them as such. If we as the family can be of any assistance to you please do not hesitate to contact us.

Again, thank you!

Sincerely,
The Underwood family

Fine coverage

Thank you very much for the very fine coverage provided by the Call and Post for "An Evening With George Anthony Moore" held recently at the Bond Court Hotel. The very sensitive and true incidents noted in the story only go to show how much has been accomplished during the lifetime of Mr. Moore. Although, we do have much more work to be done in the areas addressed during the dinner. Hopefully, George Anthony Moore's life will continue to serve as a beacon in the future as it has been in the past.

Also, as noted in the story there were many awards. It should be acknowledged that Mayor Voinovich and Commissioner Virgil E. Brown, actually provided their own awards — one from the City of Cleveland, proclaiming it "George Anthony Moore Day in Cleveland" and the award presented personally to Mr. Moore by Commissioner Brown from the Board of the Cuyahoga County Commissioners.

Again, thank you for your participation and coverage of this fine event.

Sincerely,
Fioretta A. Brooks
Cleveland, OH.

Crack is genocide

It was with a mixture of astonishment and disgust that I read the comments of Cornell McCleary concerning the recently instituted Crack Prevention Program here in Columbus.

All of his meandering rhetorical pap failed to take one thing into consideration: Crack is genocide in the Black Community; whereas in other cities Blacks have assumed a vigilante type posture in dealing with this insidious threat by acts of arson and lead poisoning against Crack Houses and dealers, at least we in Columbus are blessed with a City Administration that seeks to enlist the aid of all to prevent this evil from strangling our youth.

This is not the time for mouthing 1960's style anti-police cliches in the guise of community concern but rather for action.

It saddens me as I remember the blood sweat, tears, and time that Mrs. Mayme Moore, Barbee Durham, Ray Bell, Clarence Lumpkin, 'Wild' Bill Davis and countless others spent in developing our local N.A.A.C.P. to be a potent force in our community, only to have it replaced by a posturing bunch of idiots who are good for nothing but snapping at Black elected officials and closing down Night Clubs.

It seems that what we now have is the 'never Annoy a Cocaine Pusher.' I would advise Mr. McCleary and his bleeding heart Social Club posing as a Civil Rights organization to either lead, follow, or get out of the way.

While mothers and ministers, educators and politicians unite to confront a common enemy, these ridiculous statements only lend further credence to the philosophy of 'POGO.'

"We have met the enemy and he is us."

All I'm trying to tell you, Cornell, is wake up.

Rev. Larry McCollough,
Columbus, OH.

A summary

From the Morning Star Baptist Church Bulletin: A cute little "takeoff on the 23rd Psalm".

My appetite is my shepherd, I always want; It maketh me to sit down and stuff;

It leadeth me to my refrigerator, repeatedly; It leadeth me in the path of Burger King, for a whopper;

It destroyeth my shape; Yea, tho I knoweth I gaineth, I will not stop eating, for food tasteth so good;

The ice cream and cookies they comfort me; When the table is spread before me; it exciteth me.

The struggle in Natchez, Miss. continues

By BENJAMIN F. CHAVIS JR.
Call and Post contributing writer

Victories come in many forms, some of them unexpected. That's the way it was recently in Natchez, Mississippi in Adams County. Back in January we reported to you on the boycott of downtown businesses which had been started there around the situation in the schools. The boycott began because a white principal grabbed a little Black child and ejected him from the cafeteria for sitting next to a little white child.

That incident prompted the African American community to examine other problems in their school system. They formed the Concerned Citizens of Natchez and demanded not only the ouster of the principal but other changes as well. Though the school system is 70 percent African American, the school administration is 87 percent white. The group asked that 50 percent of the instructional staff be African American and that the administrative staff be fairly representative of Natchez's African American population.

When the town's power structure refused to negotiate in good faith, the African American community began a boycott of all downtown stores. It has been effective. As Rep. Barney Schoby, the town's African American state legislator told us, "The boycott has had a tremendous effect. When I viewed the sales tax collection figures it became clear that the Natchez businesses are not doing as well as they did last year — they are suffering. And they have admitted this." There have been other successes, too. When the community first announced the boycott, the white Mayor of Natchez, Tony Byrne, didn't take it seriously. Then he tried to say that the boycott was being mounted for political reasons. He tried to put the blame for failed negotiations on Rep. Schoby and sent a letter to some of the Black leadership denouncing him.

The African American community asked for the mayor's resignation. They reminded him that back in 1982 he had opposed extension of the Voting Rights Act. They reminded him that when the Federal Government released a study in 1979 saying that Adams County was on a list of the 15 most segregated school ren. They are continuing their demands that 30 percent of the $20 million which the Adams County school board spends each year be used with minority firms. They are continuing their legislative struggle to have their school board members elected, not appointed. They are continuing their struggle for empowerment at every level.

The African American community of Natchez understands that, like the Montgomery bus boycott, this could be a long struggle. As Natchez Alderman George Harden explained when we spoke with him back in January, "Wherever there's a cause, there's sacrifice. The people know that when we took this thing on." State Representative Schoby recently reaffirmed this when he said, "We're in the trenches and we're set to stay in the trenches for as long as it takes. And if it takes until hell freezes over, we'll be here."

With this kind of commitment and strength, the African American community of Natchez cannot help but win their struggle.

Why do you think there hasn't been a repeat NBA champion since the 1968-69 Boston Celtics?

"Personally, I couldn't tell you as far as teams go. I think they get a little too cocky. I don't think L.A. is going to repeat this year."
Kenneth Montgomery
Route Supervisor
Columbus, OH.

"Well, I don't know why they haven't been. The Lakers seem to be a good team. Everything is well coordinated with them. They always prove themselves when they get on the court. The Lakers will definitely win this year."
LeJune Reynolds

"My personal opinion is just the caliber of play. You have a better caliber of ball player. It's more team play than individual play. A team wins, then the next year the other teams play harder against that team."
Wayne Burton
City of Columbus Employee
Columbus, OH.

"I don't know. I don't have enough information to address that. I used to play basketball when I was in high school. I didn't get back into basketball after I started college."
Rev. Phile D. Hale
Minister
Columbus, OH.

"I think it's because of two reasons. It's a much more physical brand of play. It's hard for a team to stay healthy year to year. There is far more talent in the league than there ever has been. The Lakers will repeat."
Amos H. Lynch Jr.
Circulation Manager
Columbus, OH.

"Parity, I guess. There are a lot of good teams. If you've noticed, they're going back and forth: Lakers, Boston; Boston, Lakers. I do believe the Lakers will get it this year back to back."

AME celebrates bicentennial

A week or so ago the music world celebrated the 100th anniversary of the birth of the legendary Irving Berlin. A few years ago throughout the continental United States of America, its citizenry proudly staged numerous extravaganzas to let the world know that America is proud of its heritage. The year of our Lord, 1887, marked the establishment of Mt. Vernon Ave. A.M.E. Church, and for that milestone the membership has been celebrating the founding of the church monumental and the ecclesiastical church in its celebration of two hundred years of soul saving and spiritual emphasis throughout the nation.

On June 14, the Mt. Vernon Ave. A.M.E. Church family will host an extravaganza for the church world in this area in final celebration of 100 years of existence and 200 years of AFRICAN METHODISM throughout the world.

The extravaganza, an A.M.E. Bicentennial Showcase, will be a musical portrait, "The Sounds of a Century" featuring narrations by media specialists Jill Frost, WVKO News director, and Calvin Sneed, co-anchor of channel WSYX "Good Morning America" and reporter for "Six on Your Side".

Also highlighting the program will be musical scores and arrangements by Ted Turner, a 100-voiced choir composed of participants from interdenominational churches throughout the city and community under the direction of Hiawatha Young, a 20-piece orchestra of professional musicians and Ohio State University students conducted by Ted Turner, and a children's choir composed of Children from all of the A.M.E. Churches in Columbus under the direction of Irma Turner.

An invitation is extended to all interested persons in a rich and lasting Black Heritage. The gala affair will be held Tuesday, June 14, 1988, 8 p.m., at the Aladdin Temple, 3850 Steltzer Rd., Columbus, Ohio. For further information, contact Rev. William S. Wheatley at the church, 253-4323, or Ted Turner at 471-3917.

EUMBA—Recently the Board of Trustees met at Radisson's Port Columbus for breakfast and presented plaques of appreciation to the gracious pastors and congregations, of Oakley Baptist, Union Grove Baptist, Trinity Baptist and the Hosack Street Baptist churches. From left: Rev. James A. Frazier, Antioch accepted for Union Grove Baptist, but Reverend E.A. Parham, Trinity and Rev. Percy A. Carter, Jr., Hosack Street, were present to receive the gratitude of the Trustee Board Members. Previously, a plaque was given the Reeb-Hosack congregation and Pastor Harold Hopkins. The above churches were gracious to provide and in some cases contributed the annual Founder's Day Banquet always held in November. Dr. Charles W. Noble, Sr., is chairman of the EUBS Trustee Board, and is seen in back of the group.

Anniversary is planned

The Greater Christ Temple Church will celebrate the 14th Anniversary services for District Elder and Mrs. John Thompson on June 15-19.

The services titled "Occupy 'till I Come" with guest speaker District Elder Elzy Thomas, Ashland Kentucky, will be held nightly at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday morning worship at 11:45 a.m.

A fellowship banquet on Sunday Afternoon at 3:30 p.m.

The services are held to honor Elder Thompson's 35 years of pastoring.

Girl Scouts start pilot

Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council announces a program for girls ages 6-12 entitled, "I AM SOMEBODY". The pilot begins July 11 and runs through Aug. 19. The program will operate one day a week for six weeks at five Columbus Metropolitan Housing sites. The sites chosen for the program are Sawyer Manor, Poindexter, Lincoln Park, Sullivan Gardens, and Windsor Terrace. This joint project between the Girl Scouts and the Columbus Metropolitan Housing Authority is free to girl participants.

To start these fun summer events girls are invited to attend one of the following kick-off programs scheduled at the different sites: June 14, Poindexter; June 16, Sawyer Manor; June 21, Sullivan Gardens; June 23, Windsor Terrace; June 28, Lincoln Park. Each kick-off activity will be held 1-4 p.m. Activities will include jewelry making, music, paper sculptures, plus at 2 p.m. Jubal Harris will offer a special segment on African Folklore.

For more information call the Girl Scout office, 487-8101, and ask for Mona Lane, Program Manager.

EUMBA Bible school closing exercises are slated Sunday

By ELIZABETH LANEY
Call and Post Contributing Writer

The Eastern Union Missionary Baptist Association (EUMBA) has two subsidiaries or auxiliaries that it promotes and supports, the Assembly Grounds (EUAG) in Hanover, Ohio near Newark, and the Bible School (EUBS) at 461 St. Clair Ave. at Atchison.

Now the EUMBA is comprised of Baptist churches in approximately 26 counties. With the greatest number of churches located in Columbus. The 115 year old organization of Black churches has produced these two subsidiaries only within the last ten years. The seasonal plans for the Assembly Grounds began with the Mid-Year Session in May. The Bible School Closing exercises will be held Sunday, June 12 at 7 P.M. at the Trinity Baptist Church, in the Sanctuary.

All the elegance, pomp and dignity of an annual school closing will be displayed Sunday evening when faculty members, President E.A. Parham, Vice-President Leon L. Troy, Sr., Dean Robert A. Callahan, and Chairman, Board of Trustees, C.W. Noble, Sr., lead the processional into the sanctuary.

The instructors and administrative staff of the school will follow.

Pastors, Percy A. Carter, Jr., Hosack; Odell Waller, Tabernacle; Wray Bryant, Lockbourne Road; A. Wilson Wood, Bethany; Reverend William M. Pinckney, Trinity, Dr. Gloria Friend and Mrs. Frances Pace.

The Trustee Board members, also robed, will close the processional into the sanctuary just as they are responsible and entrusted to manage the business affairs of the school. Led by the Vice Chairman-Pastors Harold Hopkins, Reeb-Hosack; Cleophus Kee, Greater Twelfth Avenue, Jack Watkins, Mt. Gerizim;

Jerome Ross, Triedstone; A.E. Wiggins, Christ Memorial; Glenn Adair, Mt. Zion; Wayne T. Lee, Jordan; Leroy Stills, Middlerun, Xenia, O; Cleveland Jones, Second, Delaware, OH; Dr. Dolores Diggs, Second Baptist; Roosevelt O. Besteda, Southfield Baptist; Elizabeth C. Laney, Shiloh Baptist; John White, Second Baptist; and Dr. Curtis Lewis, Union Grove Baptist Church.

The Reverend A. Wilson Wood will be the speaker for the evening. Music will be supplied by the EUBS Choir and the Gospel

Choir of Trinity. The entire program will be under the joyful approval of the Moderator of the Eastern Union Missionary Baptist Association. Reverend James Frazier, Pastor, Antioch Baptist Church. The public is invited to attend.

Sister enjoying rich African experience

(Editor's Note: Last year, Sister Patricia Carroll, former director of the Mount Carmel Outreach Program, was reassigned to Uganda to fulfill a missionary prerequisite before she takes her final vows. Sister Patricia recently wrote a letter to her friends at Mount Carmel Health describing her surroundings and responsibilities in the central African nation) Dear Friends,

Well, the rainy season has returned. It rains every day for one or two times during the day. One of those times we get a torrential rain. The other times it's nice soft rain. It's good for our rain tank, since the parish water system is not functioning right now. Actually, the water system hasn't worked since they drained it to rid it of the dead rats.

Right now, I am once again sitting on our front porch in Bwamba listening to a rain storm coming in from the east over the mountains. Yes, you can hear the rain approaching. It's quite an experience.

I know it's also going to involve thunder, because SemiLiki, our dog, has come and plopped his head in my lap with a whine. He's afraid of thunder.

I can see the mountains in Zaire now that rains have arrived. Both Sister Julie and I are missing having fresh caught talapia (fish) every day. When we were on "holiday" vegetating for two weeks, we had that kind of fish every day. Heavenly! Now we are back to beans, soya and peanuts!

Almost every child we've seen this past week has had coughs of some description. Most of the lungs are clear when we auscultate!

We ran out of our regular cough mix we dispense. An African associate is spending three months with us here in Bwamba while she studies for Uganda's "National Boards" for enrolled nurses. With her assistance, she and I went tramping through the fields looking for young eucalyptus trees among the elephant grass (tall, very tall grass with a very firm reed stalk).

SISTER PATRICIA CARROLL...enjoying rich african experience

Back to the eucalyptus trees. Anyway we were looking for leaves without brown specks--one's with brown specks are too old. Anyway, when we both gathered both arms full, we returned home.

Washed each leaf after we pulled them from their limbs and put them on the stove in water to boil. After ten minutes, we turned them over...you didn't cover them with water.

After another ten minutes, we removed the leaves and let this brown liquid cool. Then added sugar--lots--and some peppermint and wound up with our own brewed cough mix. It gives you a cooling sensation in your mouth when it goes down.

We mix it with water before we dispense it to make it more palatable. The children hate it, the mothers love it because it stops the cough.

I had stopped up sinuses, but after being around that eucalyptus while it was boiling, my sinuses opened up--but good. Getting into some native remedies now!

Well, the rains finally arrived. The hard rain is down below us and we're getting the nice gentle soft rain. Hope it continues for hours. We need our rain tank filled.

Oh to be able to go to the sink, turn on the tap and take a drink. Can do without real showers, but I do miss a drink of fresh, unboiled water! Sometimes I don't mind it, but other times really crave it. Don't mind it not being really cold either. It's also amazing how much we Americans take for granted...such as safe drinking water, driveable roads, inspected meat, etc.

Palmer, Shockley and Lowry graduate CPI

CONGRATULATIONS!!! Winnie Palmer, Michael Shockley and Barbara Lowry were recent graduates of COLUMBUS PARAPROFES-SIONAL INSTITUTE'S TRAVEL & TOURISM pro-gram. The three students were honored and recognized at CPI's commencement on April 13 at Villa Milano.

Congratulations, Winnie, Michael and Barbara. May the travel and tourism industry be all that you expect it to be.

AN INDIANA WEEKEND Letta Simpson and Rox Harris are planning a weekend to the Indiana Black Expo, Friday July 8 - Sunday July 10. The Indiana weekend includes: two nights at Hyatt Regency Hotel, round-trip transportation on Greyhound Bus, complimentary tickets to opening ceremonies, a get acquainted social and Sunday Brunch.

The Indiana Expo is billed as the largest Black cultural event in the country. Some of the activities planned are: cultural art exhibits, national speakers and sports celebrities, gospel extravaganza, health and exhibits of goods and services offered by Black entrepreneurs. Headlining this year's entertainment will be: STEVIE WONDER, LEVERT and STEPHANIE MILLS. For more information on the Expo weekend contact: Rox Harris 221-5849.

BEDO'S CONVENTION The Steering Committee for the BLACK ELECTED DEMOCRATS OF OHIO, is finalizing last minute details for the June 17th and 18th, 12th Biennial Convention to be held at Hyatt on Capitol Square. This year's theme - Victory in 88 - Recapturing the Vision, should prove to be one of the best ever.

BEDO's (Black Elected Democrats of Ohio) major focus is to offer Black Ohioan's an effective access to the political process and to mobilize grassroots political organizations.

The Honorable C.J. McLin Jr., Dayton's state representative and one of BEDO's founders, had a vision many years ago this year's convention committee, headed by Sharlene J. Morgan, intends to recapture that vision. For information on the convention, call BEDO's office at 221-6563.

A LETTER OF PRAISE Thanks J.M. for such an informative, well-written column. I've been reading Travel-Hospitality News since it's inception and truly enjoy the concept. I especially enjoy the column when you touch on many subjects. The April 14 issue was one of the best yet. J.M. please share more information and tips on vacation spots and things to do when we go to these spots. Again, thanks to you and Amos H. Lynch Sr. for such a worthwhile effort and keep up the good work.

BEST BUY FOR YOUR MONEY

For those travelers who've gone most everywhere, except on a cruise, you've no doubt have saved the best for last. A cruise gives you, the traveler, the most for your money. Here's what a cruise package includes: Round-trip airfare, the cruise for XXX amount of days, depending on whether you'd want a 3, 4, 7 or 14 day cruise, and 3 meals a day, plus an evening buffet (good food and plenty of it). Your entire trip is paid for before you leave home; therefore, the only money needed will be money for shopping and a $2 tip per day for those wonderful people (dining room waiter and room steward) who pamper you during the cruise.

Another good deal is an all inclusive resort. The all inclusive offers: accommodations, all meals, all beverages, entertainment, all sporting activities and sightseeing. Taxes and gratuities are also included in the pre-paid package. For more information on cruises and all inclusive resorts call: YOUR WORLD OF TRAVEL AT 863-1984.

HATS OFF TO THE WESTIN HOTEL CHAIN

During a recent visit to Kansas City for NAMO's (National Association of Market Developers) annual conference, I was impressed to learn the Westin Crown Center, the host hotel for our conference, employed 21 Black men and women in managerial and supervisory positions. And not just director of house-keeping or head cook positions either, but Black sales managers, catering director, front office manager, head banquet manager and in every other managerial capacity.

Perhaps, the Westin Hotel chain, just happens to be sensitive to EEO and do understand that there should be key folks in position who can relate to all of their hotel guest. But, regardless of how the master plan was developed, it's mighty nice to see a hotel chain employ so many Blacks in key, decision-making positions. Incidentally, Westin Cincinnati employs a Black General Manager.

DO keep these things in mind when planning your conventions and special events.

WU awarded $500,000 by Timken Foundation

WILBERFORCE. Dr. John L. Henderson, President of Wilberforce University, recently announced that the university has been awarded a $500,000 grant from the Timken Foundation of Canton, Ohio. The gift will be used to support the university's capital campaign efforts to construct a new academic support center and a multi-purpose complex.

According to Dr. Eric V.A. Winston, Vice President for Development, $350,000 of the grant will be directly applied to the capital fund. The remaining $150,000 will be awarded as a challenge grant to the Wilberforce University Alumni Association. The challenge grant will assist the Alumni Association with their $1 million dollar pledge towards the construction of the multi-purpose complex.

The goal for the capital campaign is $4 million dollars and the Timken gift, excluding the challenge grant, brings the current total to just under $2.4 million dollars.

"The Timken family's generous support has reinforced our hopes of breaking ground for the new buildings sometime this summer.

The gift has brought great optimism to the school and we look forward to the positive events which will result from this gift," said Henderson.

The academic support center and the multi-purpose complex will be located on the new campus and this will geographically consolidate the campus for the first time since 1967. The Wilberforce administration is currently housed on the old campus which has been sold to the State of Ohio for the completion of the National Afro-American Museum and Cultural Center.

The new multi-purpose complex will seat up to 3,000 people for convocations and 1,500 people for athletic events. This will give Wilberforce the opportunity to re-enter intercollegiate sports and host community events.

The Timken Foundation promotes broad civic betterment through capital-fund grants, largely for schools, hospitals, cultural centers, and conservation and recreation.

Mahogany Vacations caters to Black-American traveler

Recently plans for the opening of The Mahogany Vacation Network were announced in Columbus. Chuck Fitch, president of the new company, outlined this unique travel organization geared for the Black American traveler.

"Thousands of Black Americans are traveling every year spending billions of dollars, and in many cases, they are unable to fulfill their vacation dreams because travel and tour operators do not understand their specific needs," stated Fitch.

In today's market, the Black traveler ranges from families planning trips to visit relatives to complete world tours. In most cases, the Black vacationer desires a different approach to vacationing; and in some cases, they would prefer traveling with a group who have similar backgrounds and interests that is why we have formed this organization.

Although travel businesses are just beginning to discover a market in Black travelers, they are really not planning advertising and promotional campaigns aimed at Black travelers. And those that do still only show white vacationers even when featuring such destinations as the Bahamas and Jamaica.

Mahogany Vacation Network, a Black owned tour operator was conceived and will focus its attention primarily on the Black traveler and the destinations he intends to visit. Mahogany's management, reservationist, customer service staff, tour guides, its distributors and its promotional and marketing agents will all be manned by Black individuals who will be sensitive to the Black traveler.

To begin, Mahogany Vacations will offer only tours to Disney World, certain cruises and tours to the Caribbean. But as the Network grows the cruises and tours will begin to reflect the demands and needs of its members. Distributors will be placed throughout the United States in most major cities. Within the next 12 months, most Black travelers will have access to the Mahogany Network.

Fitch welcomes any inquiries and can be reached at 1-800-458-6432.

AABM reports on May 10 entrepreneur's forum

By R. J. [Name obscured]
Call and Post Contributing Writer

The Action Alliance of Black Managers (AABM) launched its Entrepreneurs Forum May 10 at its general meeting. The objective was to allow Black businesses to present their goods and services, and to identify ways the Black community can network.

The program featured the Columbus-based All Supplies Inc. and Sugar and Spice Modeling Agency.

Flo Jordan, the presenter for All Supplies is in the business of furnishing everything for the office or residence. Started in 1983, their wares include computer supplies, facsimile paper and supplies, labels, ribbons, drafting equipment, office furniture, packing needs, special tapes, plumbing and heating goods, industrial equipment and various kinds of bags.

The firm's customers include AT&T, Borden, Dupont, J.C. Penny, Martin Marietta and The Ohio State University. All Supplies has certification with the city of Columbus, and states of Ohio, West Virginia, Michigan, Washington, Pennsylvania and Virginia, among others.

The supply company buys its goods from other minority firms, Jordan said. They believe in using other minority firms for their needs, and they cannot.

"Networking is the only way other corporations will hear of us," Jordan said.

According to Jordan, problems of a minority vendor include the perception of being looked upon as just that, which sometimes helps and sometimes hurts. She hasn't had any problems dealing with other minorities.

"Minority firms," she said "can't be as competitive as others, because they haven't been around as long. Pricing is sometimes an issue."

On the entertainment side, Per-rim Hill, president of Sugar and Spice, came equipped with videotape and billed herself as Ohio's first multi-talent model agency she said, its the first to be owned by a Black. Hill's Sugar and Spice are fresh off the hosting of the Ohio Regional Model's Convention and the Mr. Ohio Male Pageant in Columbus. She has run the agency full time for four years.

Of the community-at-large, Hill said, "We are all models, of which there are professionally print, radio, and broadcasting varieties. There is no certain way to look. Whatever is marketable sells. And what is marketable depends on what part of the country you are in. Naturally, what's hot in New York or California differs than in the Midwest.

Hill said with men, there is a Black market and a white market, with differences in facial hair, ethnicity (nationality) looks and that clean-cut look.

Hill showed before and after shots of models being considered for print ads and a nine-year old she has been working with who is being considered as a contestant for Star Search '89. Currently, Hill has men executives (models) visiting New York doing shows for Oscar De La Renta. Of modeling success, she said, it all starts with self-esteem and self-improvement.

COLUMBUS CLIPPERS MANAGER Bucky Dent poses with "members" of Kroger's newly developed "Bucky's Bunch." Though these children pictured were casted in order to produce the initial television commercial, the next six commercials will feature Columbus area children who will be randomly selected from membership applications received.

Kroger ad features the kid next door

With the May 22 kickoff of a new 16-week advertising campaign, don't be surprised to see the kid next door in an upcoming television commercial.

In cooperation with the Columbus Clippers baseball team and Manager Bucky Dent, Kroger has developed "Bucky's Bunch." Members of this children's club will receive a free membership packet and special benefits at Clippers games. However, one of the more exciting incentives to join the club is the chance to appear in one of six Bucky's Bunch television commercials featuring Bucky Dent.

Six groups of 25 children will be randomly selected from membership applications received to appear in a 30-second Bucky's Bunch commercial. Those same children will also appear in a full-page newspaper advertisement in The Columbus Dispatch. The commercial featuring the first set of winners is scheduled to air June

"Bucky's Bunch is an excellent opportunity for Kroger to help promote the Clippers and do something for the children of Columbus as well," said Kroger Advertising Manager Dave Tebay. "This campaign promises to be a lot of fun."

The Bucky's Bunch membership package includes a personalized membership card, an 8 x 10 color photograph of Bucky Dent, a Bucky's Bunch button, a painter's cap, and a list of special privileges at Cooper Stadium.

Another benefit exclusive to members is the opportunity to stop by "Bucky's Bunch Headquarters," a designated area at Cooper Stadium where members will receive benefits like a free hotdog, soft drink, game program, etc.

Interested children can become members by picking up an application available in area Kroger stores, then mailing to the Bucky's Bunch headquarters.

Chrysler's counsel program to attract minorities, women

Chrysler Motors Corporation announced today that it is participating in a Minority Counsel Demonstration Project sponsored by the American Bar Association to step up its efforts in attracting minority lawyers, minority law firms and women to serve as outside legal counsel.

"Chrysler Motors needs representation from the best and brightest minds in the legal profession regardless of race or sex," said Debra A. Hunter, minority counsel program coordinator. "And a company as vast as Chrysler Motors requires the expertise of legal counsel who are as diverse as its consumers."

Chrysler Motors, a producer of world-class, state-of-the-art cars and trucks, retains more than 500 law firms annually and expends millions of dollars a year to handle its legal needs. The company generates about $26 billion in sales annually.

"We recognize that it's in our interest to use the most cost-effective outside counsel available to service our needs without reducing the quality of our legal effort," said Hunter.

The company needs outside counsel for automobile product liability, warranty, marketing and dealer relations, regulatory compliance, employment and commercial litigation, antitrust, and patent protection and litigation.

Chrysler Motors' Minority Counsel Program allows minorities greater access to the company's legal business, fosters joint ventures between majority law firms and minority law firms, expands business opportunities for minority law firms, and opens professional doors for minority lawyers.

Student strives for national win and discovery of family tradition

By WALI BELL
Call and Post Staff Writer

Most people have not heard of Willow High School.

But Nkenge Jackson is trying to change that.

Nkenge, who qualified for the June 12 finals of the History Day competition, will be leaving for the University of Maryland in hopes of showing the nation a success story which started more than seven months ago for her and more than a century ago for a Black Georgia community.

Her project, "A Dream not to be forgotten: The History of a Black School, Willow High School 1874-present," details the creation and survival of a school to educate Blacks during the mid 1870's.

"In 1874, a former slave named Willie Riggs opened the school in a shanty held together by turpentine resin from trees," Nkenge said.

She explained the school was established because no schools existed to educate Blacks after the civil war.

The school also has a special place in Nkenge's heart. It has been the school which Nkenge's ancestors, including her father, have been educated. Her cousin currently attends the school.

"I had originally wanted to a project on family genealogy, but after talking to my father, I centered my project on the Willow High School," Nkenge said.

Nkenge, who placed second in the state History Day Competition, has changed and improved her project throughout the competition to keep it fresh and competitive.

"Although the idea will remain the same, the display will be entirely new for the national competition," said Nkenge.

"For the school and district competition, I added more information and improved the displays by adding more pictures and verifying facts," she said.

For the state competition, Nkenge said she changed the entire display by adding a right panel and more information on the back of the display.

"I'm constructing an entirely new display for the national competition. The new design is a circular display which will show the changes in the school from the beginning," Nkenge said.

To improve her entry in the competition, she has contacted nearly 100 people in order to get information, photographs, oral histories and materials used previously in the school.

Nkenge said she, nor her family, had expected the amount of effort and resources it would take to complete the feat.

"We had to become very tedious detectives to arrive at this," said Alvin Jackson, Nkenge's father. "We didn't foresee the labyrinth we had to go through to get there."

Alvin said the family has spent more than $50 on materials, $150 in phone calls and over $400 in photography for the project.

"The most expensive part was getting copies of old photographs. People would give us original photographs and we would have to make copies and return the originals to them," Alvin said.

Nkenge's information hunt started with her father who had conducted oral histories of people in the Bulloch county Georgia area.

"Oral histories played a major part of the research," Nkenge said. "Then we would find others to crossmatch the information and verify it."

Nkenge said she had to do the research in addition to her school requirements.

She has won an academic fitness award with a 3.8 grade point average at Monroe Middle School.

"My goal after high school is to go to Howard University, Nkenge said. She said she would like to major in Psychology or Medicine. Her father is a pre-med student and her mother has a doctorate in Pharmaceutical Sciences.

"To do well, I had to try to balance my homework and do the research later. My school work always comes first," she added.

Nkenge said she stays up many times after 11:30 p.m. to do work on the project.

And her efforts are not taken lightly, Nkenge's parents say.

"I'm very proud of the accomplishments she has made. The growth she has demonstrated in her research skills and the people she has interacted with have impressed both of us," Alvin said.

"I'm also proud she did the history project on the family. It carries on the family tradition," added.

The Jackson family said future possibilities for the project include donating the information to the Afro-American History Museum in Wilberforce, Ohio.

NEAC remains concerned about 'Gateway' plans

By GILBERT PRICE
Call and Post Staff Writer

The commission which is responsible for reviewing the proposed 64-unit addition to Columbus' near east side has expressed its concerns to city officials that the project, while a valued addition to the community, continues to face some community opposition.

The Near East Area Commission has raised questions about the winning design, submitted by the Newtowne Corp., that it had an insufficient number of single-family units, and that the process by which the company was chosen did not incorporate sufficient community participation.

However, city officials apparently are planning to press ahead with the project, which represents the first large-scale, market-rate housing development on the near east side in many years.

Sources close to the process have said that the Near East Area Commission sent a letter to city officials expressing the group's disappointment with the winning design, and with the lack of community input surrounding the entire process of choosing the city's builder on this project.

At a public meeting at which the project and the developer, Newtowne, were presented to the community, NEAC vice-chairman, said that, when the project was originally discussed by the Department of Human Services, which is the lead agency for the development, "the department felt it important to come out of the community, and we had five provisions, one of which was that we would be involved in the decision." Flowers was concerned that the decision on which developer the city would choose, and the design which would finally be picked, was made without sufficient community participation.

Although NEAC chairman Carl Wiley was on the panel reviewing the proposals, Flowers said, "we don't have a commission operate with one person speaking for us." Wiley himself said that there had not been, to his knowledge, a formal vote taken on the various proposals.

In addition, the NEAC believed that the proposed density, of 64 units on a tract of land where originally 59 houses had stood, was too great, and that there should be no houses on Long St. Newtowne president William Riatt said that it would be possible to take the Long St. housing units out of the plan.

Detached single-family units constructed on the site, city officials said, would cost at least $20,000 per unit more, pricing many people out of the market.

As the project now stands, the houses are expected to cost between $70,000 and $80,000. Families making at least $31,000 per year will be eligible to make application for the homes, which will require a $1,000 down payment and monthly payments of between $650 and $750.

The city said there were already 100 families on the waiting list for the houses, which must be sold in order for the city to go ahead with the project.

The city's Development Commission will be reviewing the project on Thursday, June 9. The final decision on the project will be made by the Columbus city council, which must approve the award of the contract to Newtowne.

Columbus Schools set graduation schedules

More than 3,300 graduates will participate in Columbus Public Schools ceremonies June 10-12. Commencement speakers were not immediately available. The following is a list of graduation ceremonies that will be held in Mershon Auditorium and the school board representative who will participate:

CSCC graduation Friday

Nearly 400 Columbus State Community College graduates will file into Veterans Memorial Auditorium on Friday, June 10 to receive their diplomas in more than 30 technologies. State Rep. Dean Conley will be the keynote speaker this spring graduation. Conley will draw on the vast experiences from his own college days, work, and five terms as a state representative in the Ohio General Assembly.

Dr. Harold Nestor, president, will confer the degrees on the graduates, proudly pointing up the fact that there are ten Summa Cum Laude graduates - two of them being husband and wife. Anita and Randy Stickle from Neward have managed to maintain a perfect 4.0 point average in the Fire Science Technology while working full time at the Newark Ohio Fire Department as captains. Both enrolled at Columbus State Autumn Quarter 1985 and have consistently maintained a full evening schedule of classes. The graduation ceremony will start at 10 a.m. and is open to the public.

GOSPELFEST '88

Expanded Gospelfest at Riverfront Amphitheatre

Gospelfest '88, expanded this year to include a free performance by the nationally known Clark Sisters, will be held at the Riverfront Amphitheatre on June 10 & 11, at 7:30 p.m. Gospelfest '88, Columbus' version of the gospel grammy awards, is sponsored by McDonalds and the Call and Post.

On June 10 the final competition will be held. There are two categories in this year's competition: large (30 or more members) and small (10-29 members) choirs. Winners in each category will be awarded $1000 for 1st Place, $750 for 2nd Place, and $250 for 3rd Place. A total of 23 choirs vied for the six finalist positions.

Finalists in the small choir category are: Voices of Charity, directed by Robert Solomon and Roseland Booker; II SBC Male Chorus, directed by Walter Flemmings, II; and Groveport Apostolic Choir, directed by Mark and Carol Condon. Finalists in the large choir category are: Living Faith Apostolic Church Combined Choir, directed by Kandie Patterson; The Columbus Chapter of the Edwin Hawkins Music and Art Choir, directed by Keith Dobbins; and The Columbus Bibleway Church Gospel Choir, directed by Mary Davis. These finalists are assured 1st, 2nd, or 3rd place in the finals.

On June 11, the two first place choirs will perform in concert. The evening will be climaxed with a performance by the Clark Sisters.

Gospel music has long been a source of inspiration for Americans and is recognized as an integral part of the American music tradition.

The event's coordinator, Devoonne Tyree-Cooke, noted,

"This is the first time that the City has been involved with a corporate sponsor to promote gospel music. The Music in the Air Series is well known, but the addition of Gospelfest to the program expands its diversity. McDonalds and the Call and Post are proud to be involved in presenting this program to the community. We look for everyone to come out and enjoy."

The miscellaneous chatter of happiness is.

MISCELLANEOUS CHATTER

The column today is going to be in celebration of some of the folks we know who have received awards recently or who have been busy beavers. In other words, this is a happiness offering to Columbus achievers — plus a miscellaneous item or two.

Let's see ... a very nice thing happened to Mrs. H. Alfred Glascor (Mary) a few weeks ago. She was awarded her 50-year membership pin from the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority at the local chapter's Awards Luncheon. Mary was the lone recipient of this honor this year. As we know, this spritz-sized lady is a ball of energy. She was initiated into AKA Theta Chapter at The Ohio State University and was Basileus there for a stint. When she went on to Howard University, she transferred her membership to the Alpha Sigma Omega Chapter and, as you guessed, served as Basileus for a time there also. She has also served on several national committee of her beloved AKA.

Mary is entrained with her lovely 50-year pin. It's called a pin, but actually it is a lavalier about the size of a quarter that she will wear suspended from a gold chain. The gold pendant sports the raised AKA symbol in the center with 50 below it. It is finished in delicate filigree. Her Sorors are trying to get her to join them for their annual Boule (the AKA's title of their convention) in L.A. this summer to receive national Happiness is being a senior at Southern University in Baton Rouge, La., if campus man, Bronson Woodruffe, is a sample. Although he is looking forward to senior-year studies and activities at his mother's (Mrs. Delores Woodruffe) alma mater, he tells me that he enjoyed his sophomore year there better than any year so far. Happiness is watching Bronson enjoy the next year, his senior year, just as much as his sophomore year.

recognition, but Mary doesn't know if she will be able to put that trip into her already busy summer plans. Happiness to you, Mary.

Mr. Dorcus Claytor should be as happy as a rabbit in a lettuce patch what with all of the accolades that have been bestowed on him this year. You know, don't you, that he was one of this year's recipients of the Mayor's Award for Volunteer Service? SOME of the items on his resume include being Covener (President) of the Gray Panthers, an organization to assist elderly and young people; Chair, Area Agency on Aging; Vice-President, Board of the Central Community House; President, Ohio Welfare Conference; Member, by Governor's appointment, of the Home and Community Care Council and Member of the Peer Review Board of Ohio, to name just a few. Happiness is resting after listening to Dorcus' contributions to the community. (A note to you word hounds. Covener is not a word that is familiar to me nor could I find it in any number of dictionaries. But, I was assured that that is the correct word).

Happiness for Mrs. Mamie Blanding of Detroit was being the houseguest of her dear friends Mr.

and Mrs. William "Bill" Prillerman (Margaret) for an extended weekend.

For Mrs. Sterling Burke (Peggy), happiness has been being National President of the Epicureans. She ends her two-year tenure in that position at the Epies' convention in Raleigh, N.C. later this Summer. She's busy preparing for all of the meetings she'll have to conduct and loving every minute of it.

Peggy is another dynamo. She is the newly appointed Assistant Deputy Auditor of Ohio per appointment by Thomas E. Ferguson, Auditor of State. She recently completed a very heavy project in another country that had to do with naughty, naughty billing practices.

On the fun side, Peggy has enjoyed the various trips of the Camper Club of which she and Sterling are members. They went West to Las Vegas and visited her sister and brother-in-law who live there, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and Geraldine Leigh. She also motored to Michigan to visit another sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald and Mariam Reed.

For a number of years, Peggy has been involved in the National International Program and currently remains on its board. She enjoys jetting to Washington, D.C. to attend the meetings, and as if the above bits of business weren't enough, she will represent American Baptist Women of Ohio at the national convention later this year. Happiness is saying to Peggy, "Keep it up as long as you're enjoying it."

Happiness is wishing Mrs. John White (Elsie) a bright sunny day and a swift and speedy recovery. She's confined at Riverside Methodist Hospital. Drop her a cheery card, why don't ya!!!

CONGRATULATIONS!

Saint Anthony salute attracts over 275

Over 275 supporters of Saint Anthony Medical Center and Saint Anthony Mercy Hospital attended Salute '88 at the Center of Science and Industry (COSI) on May 14. The black tie gala was held in honor of the successful merger of the two medical facilities. The merger took place last August.

Salute '88 was the first project to be planned and produced by the joint Saint Anthony-Mercy Service Board. Bobbi Edgin is currently serving as president of the service board. She says the organization plans to make Salute an annual event. Service board member Ellen Klopfer chaired the Salute '88 gala.

Among those attending were Charles Housley, president and CEO of Franciscan Health System of Central Ohio; Dr. Clair Vermilion, chief of staff at Saint Anthony; Dr. John Rosemond, former Columbus city councilman and Gary Williams, OSU head basketball coach.

Housley acted as master of ceremonies for the evening's festivities which included a presentation of two glass sculptures, commemorating the merger, to the chief executive officers of each hospital. Housley himself received miniature replicas of each sculpture.

Gary Williams congratulated the assembly on the successful completion of the merger. Williams is currently under a personal service contract to Saint Anthony. Made From Scratch catered the David I. Valinsky, corporate vice-president of marketing and development for the two hospitals, was especially pleased by the enthusiastic response to this year's Salute. "We've seen this event grow each of the last two years," Valinsky said. "We feel that it's rapidly becoming a major Columbus social affair."

Census bureau needs workers

The Census Bureau has begun a campaign to recruit 35,000 temporary workers to help prepare a master address list for the delivery of a 1990 census questionnaire to each housing unit in the nation.

Workers will go door-to-door to help the Commerce Department agency put together a computerized list containing about 100 million addresses by the end of 1989. They will compile some 32 million of the addresses this year, located in half of the nation's 3,042 counties and mostly outside metropolitan areas, and they will add another 11 million in 1990.

The Census Bureau plans to purchase another 56 million addresses, mostly in large metropolitan areas, from commercial mailing list companies.

Address listing operations will begin in 18 states in July. Work in other states will take place in stages, or "waves," through December.

Census address lists usually will work about six weeks and will be paid $5.50 an hour. Mileage expenses will be reimbursed. Applicants must take a written examination.

For more details about the availability of temporary census jobs, contact the Detroit Regional Census Center, 27300 W. 17 Mile Rd., Suite 200, Southfield, Mich. 48034-2244 or call Betty Hughes (313) 354-1990.

Poindexter elects relations board

The residents of Poindexter Community recently elected a Community Relations Board. The Board, comprised of 11 men and women, will serve as the voice of the residents of Poindexter in community-related affairs. This is the first community action group kind within the network of Columbus Metropolitan Housing Authority (CMHA) communities.

Sam S. Guest, Executive Director of CMHA states: "The Columbus Metropolitan Housing Authority (CMHA) is proud to be a partner to the Community Relations Board. The establishment of this body reflects the finest effort undertaken to further the furthance of effective participation."

The installation banquet will be on Saturday, June 11, 1988, 8 p.m. in the Community Building, 240 N. Champion Ave. Outstanding graduates and distinguished residents will be honored. Reverend Leon Troy, Pastor, First Baptist Church and Special Assistant to The Honorable G. Ripehart, Mayor, City of Columbus, will be the keynote speaker. His address, "Unity in Black Community," reflects the theme of the evening. Reverend Troy will install the officers of the Community Relations Board. The program will include community notables and a special musical interlude.

This no-cost function is open to the entire community. Seating, by reservation only, is limited, so please call 258-3471, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., through June 10, 1988, to make your reservation.

Poindexter is the third oldest public housing community in the nation. President Franklin D. Roosevelt dedicated the building in 1944. From the beginning, Poindexter has remained a community apart; proud, strong and united, both in spirit and purpose. This community has contributed sons and daughters whose fame spreads from the legislative halls of our fair city and state to the nation's capital. Graduates of the "Blackberry Patch" are teaching children and youth in schools and institutions of higher learning throughout this country and in countries throughout the world. There are ministers, doctors, lawyers and persons of nearly every discipline who call Poindexter their birthplace. The history of Poindexter is rich in the tradition of excellence for its young people.

Today's changing scene and technologies demand attention to community problems unknown to the past. The residents of Poindexter have made their voice clear in the community as they came together to "Push Out the Pusher." This community-wide effort has been very effective in gaining the attention of the Columbus Police Department, thus getting direct assistance to move out the "pushers." Community crime has diminished as neighbor joins neighbor to keep watch over their property and to be alert to illegal activity in their area.

As dollars are allocated to be expended in the near eastside, the officers of the Community Relations Board will make the voice of the residents of Poindexter Community heard. Accounting to Samuel Hairston, President, Poindexter Community Relations Board, "The people of the Poindexter Community understand the meaning of this occasion and see it as a new beginning toward the revitalization of our community and our lives."

This is a new beginning and a new challenge. Poindexter will continue to meet the current needs of its people. According to Khari Enaharo, Office of Intergovernmental Affairs, CMHA, "This event marks the beginning of a historical epoch for this great community. The whole world will know just how courageous and outstanding the proud people of Poindexter are!"

ing action to reduce the cancer rates among Blacks, the National Cancer Institute sponsored the National Leadership Initiative on Cancer at the Chicago Hilton and Towers. The Association of Black Health Professionals also co-sponsored the May 17 meeting.

In attendance from the Chicago area were: E. Kathleen Cooke, Cleveland; E. Esprit Wilberforce, Columbus; E. Hines, Columbus; T. Maultsby, Dayton; Dr. C. Patterson, Wilberforce; Sandra Polin, Toledo; A. Spencer, Youngstown; G. Utz, Worthington; Wilburn H. Weddington, Columbus.

Initiatives aim was to create a network of concerned Black leaders throughout the country to help organize, plan, and support cancer prevention programs for Black Americans. Participants at the meeting will include leaders of religious, business, medical, civic and social organizations in the Chicago area. The day-long meeting was chaired by Dr. Clyde Phillips, Chicago School of Public Health. The meeting included presentations by Louis Sullivan, president of Morehouse School of Medicine and a member of NCI's National Cancer Advisory Board, who discussed the Institute's goal to cut the nation's cancer death rate by 50 percent by the year 2000, and by Dr. Claudia Baquet, Chief of NCI's Special Populations Studies Branch, who discussed cancer among the Black population. These presentations will be followed by working group sessions to discuss issues and make recommendations for future action.

Blacks are at higher risk for certain cancers and have poorer survival rates than the nation's white population. In 1984, the most recent year for which such statistics are available, 386 per 100,000 Black Americans were diagnosed with cancer compared with 350 per 100,000 whites. That same year, 219 per 100,000 Blacks died of cancer compared with 167 per 100,000 whites.

Blacks are at higher than average risk for cancers of the lung, larynx, throat, respiratory tract, bladder, kidney, and pancreas. Through efforts in prevention, screening, and treatment, risk can be reduced and chances for survival improved for Blacks.

Many cancers can be prevented by changing personal habits, like smoking cigarettes and certain dietary habits, that expose individuals to cancer risks. Studies point to a person's habits and lifestyle and to access to medical care, rather than to biological characteristics, as chief causes of the different cancer rates between Blacks and whites. The participants at the meeting were asked to utilize their leadership role to inform the Black community about cancer risk factors and the actions that individuals can take to reduce their personal risk.

This was the third of six meetings held in major cities with large Black populations to gain national support from Black leadership for cancer control. Future meetings will be held in New York, Houston, and Washington, D.C. The first two meetings were held in Atlanta and Los Angeles.

FIRE VICTIM, FAMILY—This photograph was taken of family members Andre, Curtis and mother Jacqueline White, before fire struck their Monroe Avenue home killing Curtis.

Faulty extension cord found as cause of three-year old's death

By WALL BELL
Call and Post Staff Writer

The inspiration in Jacqueline White's life is lost.

Her son, three-year old Curtis A. White, died in a fire last Sunday which caused more than $20,000 estimated damage to the building and left the remaining members of the White family homeless.

But White said that everything can be replaced but the life of her son.

"I lost my baby. Everything can be replaced but a human life. His human life," White said.

White said her husband first noticed the smell of smoke in the house, located at 359 N. Monroe Ave., about 2:40 a.m. and woke her up.

"He woke me up and said 'call the kids, there's fire in the house,'" Mrs. White said. Mr. Sylvester White was unwilling to comment on the fire.

Mrs. White said the fire spread so quickly that the four other children Shawn, 14, Leon, 10, Shawnte, 9, Andre, 6, and a neighbors child Cindy Mackey, 11, barely had time to escape.

"When my handicapped son Leon came and hugged me, I noticed Curtis wasn't there," White said.

White said that was when the family realized Curtis was still inside the burning house. "Curtis usually sleeps downstairs, but he was with the older kids upstairs because they had an overnight slumber party," White said.

In the confusion of the fire, the family thought Curtis was downstairs or outside the house, she added.

"The smoke was so thick and the fire was so high, I couldn't get to the children's bedroom," White said. "I started hollering and screaming and then two neighbors tried to help."

"They tried, but the smoke turned them back too," White explained.

The fire, apparently caused by a malfunctioning extension cord attached to an electric heater, according to fire department reports, spread throughout the White's home and the adjoining double occupied by Mildred Mackey and several grandchildren. Mackey, 6, 361 N. Monroe Ave., and the grandchildren safely escaped.

White said other neighbors tried to save Curtis by going through the front bedroom windows but were also turned back because the fire had engulfed the house by that time.

The wake for Curtis White was held Wednesday at 7 p.m. at Jordan Baptist Church. The funeral followed at 8 p.m. The interment was scheduled for Evergreen Cemetery Thursday at 10 a.m. Pastor Wayne T. Lee officiating. Arrangements for the surviving family were handled by Wayne T. Lee Funeral Services.

Clothing and donations to the White family can be sent to Jordan Baptist Church, 1825 Woodland Park.

artistic potential and to share in the vital cultural currents of our community.

Sixteen different visual arts classes for adults aged 18 and over, are offered year round in eight week sessions. Painting, drawing, sculpture, ceramics, enameling, jewelry, quilting, stone carving, bronze casting, paper making and basketry are offered in day and evening sessions. "Conversations and Coffee" and "Third Sunday Poets" are two other regularly offered programs. The "Children's Art Enrichment" program and "Summer Arts for Kids" provide opportunities for youth. Other programming offered includes lectures and concerts as well as theatre and dance performances. Organizations and individuals may schedule room rentals for meetings, gatherings and receptions at a minimal charge.

reported is true, because I am the official Psychic Consultant for the president," said Montgomery, who is also the Chief Rabbi of the Beta Israel Temple/Black Jewish Community of Los Angeles.

Montgomery says he is the official psychic advisor to a number of stars, including Midge Sinclair of the former hit series "Trapper John, M.D.," given advice to Elizabeth Taylor and Sarah Purcell; and appeared as a psychic guest on the television program, "On Stage America."

His book, "Psychic Spy," also details a career in which he was an operative with British intelligence during World War II.

In his book about the Reagan Presidency, former chief of staff Donald Regan unleashed a blizzard of publicity when he said that the president's schedule was being directed by an astrologer in touch with Nancy Reagan. The astrologer, Joan Quigley, is a conservative San Francisco socialite who has been friends with the first lady for many years.

Montgomery said he was unfamiliar with Quigley. He had been the psychic consultant to the president since 1976, however, when Reagan saw him on a television program.

Montgomery said he has advised the president on a number of matters, including the Grenada invasion and a contemplated invasion of Iran. Montgomery advised against the Iran invasion.

"I think the president leaned toward my advice because of my background in British intelligence," Montgomery said.

The big disappointment in Montgomery's relationship with the president has been his failure to champion the cause of civil rights, and his cuts in welfare expenditures, Montgomery said. He has also been displeased with the president's continued support for Attorney General Ed Meese, who has been the subject of several investigations into allegations of influence-peddling.

"Meese shouldn't be on at all, and I told the president he shouldn't be on," Montgomery said. "And I was told he would be out within the next three weeks."

Montgomery said he has come forward because of the recent presidential denials about the use of psychics, in the wake of the revelations in the Regan book.

"That (denial) did not sit well with me at all, knowing that for years before (the Reagans) left California they had been acquiring the services of gifted people," Montgomery said.

A call to the White House to confirm Montgomery's role was unsuccessful. No one in the president's office or the press secretary was available for official comment regarding the president's official psychic consultant.

"I don't even know that there is (an official psychic consultant)," one of the staff members in the president's press office said.

Black minister

"Although there were people in boats and on shore, none was going near the boat because they thought it would explode," Montgomery explained.

He said he commandeered a fire extinguisher, an oar and a state of Ohio boat and started for the burning boat.

"I heard the children screaming from the boat 'help us, help us.' I told them that if anyone has a life jacket to jump in the water because the jacket will keep you afloat," Montgomery said.

The four girls jumped into the water and I told them to start coming for the shore, Montgomery added.

Montgomery and another man, Bill Vorhose of Waverly, took the boat out to the girls who jumped in the water and gave a life vest to one of the girls. The other three girls were able to swim ashore.

Montgomery then proceeded for the burning boat where Woods and his son remained, he said.

"I had problems convincing the man (Woods) to leave the boat because the man could not swim," Montgomery explained.

"I knew I had to get the man and his son off the burning boat and back to shore before the boat exploded again," Montgomery said.

Montgomery said he never thought about the risks he was taking by trying to rescue the boaters. He could only think about the children, he added.

"What greater friend is one that would lay down his life for another friend," Montgomery said reflecting on the incident.

ing to anyone in an oppressed society.

"To someone who is feeling badly about themselves the kind of feeling that Cocaine offers is enticing."

If there has ever been a more threatening or dangerous problem to face the Black community, James-Meyers says she is not aware of it. The problem will take great effort, she says, and a commitment by society at large to economics and the responsibilities of the family.

"Racism and oppression have to be addressed," James-Meyers says. "When you speak of racism and oppression, you certainly have to deal with economics. Our only solution is to take a multifaceted, wide-ranging approach. Economics alone is not the solution."

"In this addictive society we're looking to much to materialism. We're looking for solutions in the material realm. We're being socialized to look for solutions to problems that are internal with external solutions. It's a systematic problem. We have to look at the whole configuration of society. Ultimately the problem comes back to the family. We're going to be able to have to offer youth alternatives."

keep good people in state government," he said.

The proposed bill is under legislative review. Beatty represents the diverse 31st Ohio House District that includes Columbus' downtown, near Northside, Eastside, near Southside, Bexley, German Village, portions of the Ohio State campus area and Whitehall. The proposed legislation is House Bill 620.

Columbus Police Division's Capt. Frank Phillips when Crack-Cocaine first surfaced, it was thought to be the affordable offering to the white middle class.

"When Crack came out, they said 'This is going to hit,' Phillips says. "This is going to get the white middle class people. They'll be getting this stuff like crazy, etc., etc." It never happened for white people. We don't know why."

Lt. John Tilley says: Cocaine was an upper class, rich man's drug. At $100 a gram, you'd better have $100 before you can get any that you could sniff up your nose. So they knew in that social stratum—the Hollywood stars, the accountants, the YUPPIES — anybody whose got cash was into Cocaine. So when they said Crack, we can sell it for a lot less — like in New York it goes for $8 a hit, that's compared to our $25 here.

"Now it's going to drop down to the working middle class. You know, your Buckeye Steel worker. He's going to be able to afford this now. For some reason, and nobody can explain why, Crack caught on in the Black community. For some reason, Crack went to the inner-city, Black middle-aged male. That's who's using it."

It's happened in Detroit; it's happened in Los Angeles, Philadelphia.

Still, if police have profiled the problem as typical of the Black male and his community, police view the problem as they city's as a whole.

"What you have to understand, I guess, is that we're not down here just picking on anybody as such," Phillips says. "We're here for legitimate purposes, which is the Crack. The way for us to deal with it strictly from a law enforcement point of view is to arrest the Crack dealers. The problem is in certain Black areas, but that doesn't mean anything."

"We're saying that the white people has better be concerned about this problem also," Phillips adds. "It's the city of Columbus' problem. We don't want to say it's the Black community's problem. That's what the mayor has hit on. That's what everyone has hit on. That is the city of Columbus' problem. In the city of Columbus, everybody needs to help deal with it."

Columbus Mayor Dana G. Rinehart, after several telephone attempts, could not be reached for comment.

CRACK COOKIES—In early April Columbus Police Division officers seized 6 ounces of crack-cocaine from a drug courier at Port of Columbus International Airport. Nine people have been indicted through police efforts to intercept drug couriers at the airport. The crack has a street value of $10,000.

Clark Sisters sing gospel with jazz and pop melodies

The Clark Sisters, described as the most innovative female gospel group to emerge in recent years, will be the highlight of Gospelfest '88. The event, sponsored by McDonald's and the Call and Post, will be held at the Riverfront Amphitheater Friday, (June 10), 7:30-9:30 p.m., and Friday, (June 11), 7:30-10 p.m., Music In The Air Program, presents gospel music to the greater Columbus community.

Admission each night is free. The Clark Sisters, through their music, make use of an opportunity to address some issues of concern to most communities. Their lyrics, which deal with street life, sex, drugs, and problems of living, are very consistent with Black literary and musical traditions. These traditions suggest that arts should be reflective of current conditions in society.

Their creative approach to "music making" is also apparent in the melodies and harmonies they use. The Clark Sisters sing harmonies that mix gospel with jazz and pop, and come up with something that has not been heard in gospel or secular music before. An excellent example is provided by their hit song "You Brought The Sunshine," which ranked high on "Billboard's" disco, R&B, and gospel charts.

Inspired by a dedicated, well known and musically gifted mother, Mattie Moss Clark, The Clark Sisters have released nine albums, two of which are solo albums by Twinkle Clark. Twinkle has a special musical gift which, coupled with her understanding of her sister's voices, allows her to write songs which maximize the group's vocal abilities.

The Clark Sisters--Jackie, Twinkle, Dorinda and Karen--born, raised and still living in Detroit, have been singing together since Karen, the youngest, was four years old.

Experience the sound! Some may be spellbound, some may cry, and some may release their frustrations, and just let go. One thing's for sure, if you've got the spirit, you'll feel the joy.

AFROFAIR '88--The AfroFair '88 will be held at the beautiful Mt. Vernon Plaza Focal Point, Saturday, June 11, noon 'til 9 p.m. There will be music, drama, art exhibits, poetry reading and dance. The event is sponsored by Art for Community Expression (ACE). Experience cultural thrills at AfroFair '88. For more information, call 294-4200.

AfroFair '88: Arts and crafts festival at Mt. Vernon Plaza

"The purpose of AfroFair is to expose Afro-American performing, visual, and craft artists to the Columbus community. The creative skills in painting, ceramics, jewelry, sculpture and photography will be on display," said Ricardo Davenport, spokesman for Art for Community Expression (ACE) the event's sponsor. There will be face painting and balloon sculpting for the kids. For the collector the dynamic AfroFair tee shirt and poster will be on sale and raffled. Davenport encourages all to "experience the cultural thrills at AfroFair." The festival will be held at the Mt. Vernon Plaza Focal Point on June 11, from noon 'til 9 p.m.

WVCO PRESENTS BOBBY BLUE BLAND
Blues balladeer Bobby "Blue" Bland will appear at Valley Dale on Friday, June 10 at 8:30 p.m. Bland is the epitome of the blues stylist who communicates with his songs. He lets his guitar whine; he shouts, growls, and sings about being down and out. There's all the pent-up frustration of the bad times released in a flood of emotions. But he also sings about the change of human nature, and things taking a turn for the better. His latest album, "You've Got Me Loving You," is a continuation of the Bland tradition: strong songs, non-gimmicky arrangements, and a vocal delivery that cuts through to the very bone.

Semi-pro football teams hold confab in Chicago

The American Semi-Pro Football Association held its annual spring meeting on May 14 in Chicago. This meeting brought together representatives of the top semi-pro football teams from across the country. Two Columbus teams were invited and attended. General Manager Dalton Bosley, Jr. and coach Pat Kelley represented the Battlestars and coach Ed Mingo represented the Columbus Lancers' program. Some other teams represented at this meeting included the San Jose (Calif.) Bandits (participant in the 1988 semi-pro super bowl); the Baltimore Bears; the Midwest Metro Stars of St. Louis; the Pueblo (Colo.) Crusaders and the Crush of Ontario, Calif.

Topics discussed at this meeting included: the possibility of NFL affiliation; improvement in local and national awareness of the quality of AFA semi-pro football programs; improved scheduling of games between top teams; 1989 Semi-Pro football National Championship Game.

OU names Fields linebacker coach

ATHENS, Ohio -- Larry Fields, a 37-year-old former Ohio University football player and assistant coach, has returned to coach the outside linebackers for Ohio Head Football Coach Cleve Bryant.

A native of Columbus, Fields was a two-time All-Mid-America Conference defensive end and a Churchman's All-American here in 1972. Following graduation in 1972, he returned two years later and coached here until entering private business in 1979.

Fields was associated three years each with McNeil Consumer Products and the Wellcome Company.

"I knew Larry Fields as a player and I was impressed," said Bryant. His nickname in his playing days was "The Hammer." He has been in the business world the past few years and made some money, but was unhappy. He is a great motivator of people and I'm happy to have him aboard."

Fields will reside in Athens with his two sons, Lionel, 14 and Lance, 11.

More than 200 set for 'Gary's Run'

Over 200 central Ohio runners have pre-registered for "Gary's Run," set for June 12 at Saint Anthony Medical Center. Another 400 to 500 are expected to enter the certified five-mile event which features OSU basketball coach Gary Williams. Williams, himself, will be in the pack when the starting gun fires at 9 a.m. Sunday.

"We're thrilled by the early response we've had to this first-time-ever event," says David Valinsky, race director. Valinsky is vice-president of marketing and development at Saint Anthony.

A free runner's clinic is set for June 11 from 10 to 4 at Wallace Auditorium on the medical center's campus. Entries can be made then, or on the morning of the race before 8:30 a.m. Entry fee for the race is $10.

"Gary's Run" will begin and end at the doors of Talbot Hall CareUnit at 1441 Clifton Ave. — on the north side of the medical center. It will move east on Clifton through the near east side neighborhood, then into north Bexley. The course winds through the grounds of Jeffrey Park and back to Broad Street where it turns west to the medical center.

"We urge residents along the route to cheer ... spray water if it is hot ... and otherwise encourage the runners in their efforts," says Valinsky.

Proceeds from "Gary's Run" will benefit Talbot Hall CareUnit's teen drug and alcohol treatment program.

Theresa Diggs sets long jump standard

Theresa Diggs, an Ohio State University senior, set a Big Ten record in the long jump during the conference track and field championship Saturday, May 21 at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Diggs, who prepped at Columbus' Bishop Hartley High School, jumped 20 feet, 11 3/4. The jump surpassed the OSU mark of 20'-8 she had established earlier in May during the Jesse Owens Classic at OSU.

Diggs' Big Ten record jump qualifies her for the U.S. Olympic trials July 15-23 in Indianapolis, Ind. OSU women finished in sixth place behind Illinois and Minnesota (28), Indiana (26), Michigan (23) and Wisconsin (22). OSU had 14 points.

CASS LONG
...award recipient

Three Blacks were among fifteen Columbus police officers who received outstanding achievement awards in law enforcement at the fifteenth annual Police Awards Banquet, held May 20 at the J.C. Penney Casualty Insurance Company, 800 Brookridge Blvd.

Officers Stanley Byas, Cass Long and Steven Scruggs received medals of merit for their rescue efforts in saving a man from a burning automobile. Officer Marilyn Barr also received a medal.

Other award recipients were: Officer Ralph Robinson, who received the Silver Cross for his apprehension of a robbery suspect; Lt. Steve Rossiaky received the medal of Merit for successfully negotiating a situation in which a 17-year-old male was threatening suicide; Sgt. Tommy Meek received the medal of Merit for his handling of a volatile domestic situation; Officer Mark Annen received the medal of Merit for his rescue of a subject who jumped into the Scioto River; Officers Michael Castle and Danny Whittier received the medals of Merit for dragging an elderly resident from an apartment building fire, and Officer Ronald DeVault received medal of Merit for his investigation and apprehension of three robbery suspects.

Officer Dewey Stokes received the medal of Merit for his exemplary dedication to the law enforcement profession; Officer Timothy McVey was recognized with a Blue Star for injuries received when he was struck in the face by a suspect; Officer James Scanlon received the Blue Star for injuries received when he fell while pursuing a robbery suspect; Officer Ellen Wilhelm received the Blue Star for injuries he received when she was thrown against a five-foot high chain link fence while executing a search warrant.

or condoning a discriminatory work environment for Black officers.

•From permitting or condoning a pattern of racial harassment or racially insulting and humiliating behavior.

•From discriminating against Black officers in transfers and assignments.

•From discriminating against Black officers in promotions.

On March 1 the City of Columbus had filed a motion for reconsideration of an earlier order that required an EEO officer, who is yet to be appointed by the city, to report directly to the Safety Director. In an affidavit filed with the motion, chief Dwight Joseph said the appointment of a semi-independent EEO officer would undermine his authority as chief. Joseph wanted the EEO officer to follow the normal police "chain of Command" and report to him directly and not the Safety Director.

In his order Graham said: "There is a present need for improved EEO procedures in the Division of Police, including the appointment of a professional semi-independent EEO officer within the Department of Safety, but outside the direct chain of command of the Division of Police."

In its motion the city argued that the present leadership of the division should not "be saddled with responsibility for the mistakes of their predecessors."

To that, Judge Graham replied: "The evidence does not exonerate the present leadership of the Division from responsibility for past discrimination, nor does the evidence convince this court that there is no chance that similar problems may not occur in the future."

Graham also ordered that any reports prepared by an EEO officer "shall be forwarded to the safety director and a copy shall be provided to the chief of police."

The interim order also reported that Flo Warren, the city's EEO officer, is an applicant for the same position within the Safety Director's office. If Warren is named to that position, Graham said, the court would name the Rev. Leon Troy to replace her as the city's EEO officer.

Geneva (Mamacita) Jackson retiring when school ends

By CHERYL WYATT
Call and Post Contributing Writer

Mrs. Geneva "Mamacita" Jackson will be retiring at the end of the school year, but she will not be forgotten in the hearts of the students she has touched through her love for the Spanish language and her love for her students at Marion-Franklin High School. Mamacita has over the years inspired many of her students to go on to higher education. Mamacita earned her Bachelor of Education degree at Ohio State University. She majored in English and minored in Spanish. She said, "I have always been in the field of education, in my old neighborhood the immigrants would come to me and ask me to help translate letters and documents."

Before coming to Marion-Franklin, Mamacita taught Spanish for half a year at East High School. When she was asked if she remembered that job, she replied "yes, I always had a blast and I loved to see the kids eyes light up and most of all I got to teach."

When Mamacita came to Marion-Franklin 25 years ago, she brought with her the theme "AGAPE LOVE," which represents seeing the truth in a person, treating him as he should be treated and always trying to see the beauty in a person. She applies it to her classes by letting the students know that they are loved.

"I love them all, but that does not mean they're going to be babies," she said.

When teaching Spanish to her students, she does not go strictly by the book. She tries to bring the culture of the language, the art, and the music into the classroom. She tries to show the difference as well as the similarities between the Spanish world and the American world. Jackson said the key to conveying her knowledge of the Spanish language to her students is by repetition, repetition and more repetition.

Mamacita has made many contributions to Marion-Franklin. Some of these contributions include assisting with Academic Boosters, assisting with the Service Above Self Ceremony, assisting with the PTA and sponsoring GOYA and the Spanish club. She has also made many contributions to the community. She worked in the mental hospital and as a Spanish tutor. While working in the hospital Jackson said she was able to help others help themselves.

Man convicted

A Franklin County Common Pleas Court jury found Joseph L. Valentine, 30, guilty of murder Monday, April 11 in the July 15, 1987 slaying of Columbus firefighter, Reginald Anthony, 31.

The jury deliberated for three hours Friday, April 8 and two hours Monday before reaching a verdict.

Judge Frank A. Reda sentenced Valentine to 15 to life, and added three years because Valentine used a gun in the slaying.

Police say Valentine, formerly of 2358 Century Dr., shot Anthony in the head after an argument.

Homicide detectives said the shooting followed a dispute over

Valentine's wife, Dorinda. Anthony was shot as he sat in his car across from Valentine's house. Police said Anthony had apparently gone to the residence to see Valentine's wife, who was divorcing Valentine.

Sgt. John Cherubini said when Anthony went to the house, he and Valentine got into a fight, and Valentine asked Anthony to leave.

Eyewitnesses told police that Anthony was putting his seat belt on when Valentine fired a pistol into the car, striking Anthony in the head.

Valentine will be eligible for parole in 13 years, according to Assistant County Prosecutor George Ellis.
